Bishop Kelley High

Modern, functional, and adequately equipped—that's Bishop Kelley High School.

The Administration Building, with its offices, counseling rooms, and student commons, joins the girls' and boys' wings, which include twenty classrooms.

Housing four science laboratories and home-making, business, art, and journalism facilities is the Core Building.

The Kelley gymnasium, which has a seating capacity of 2,000, adjoins the spacious cafeteria.

Kelley students are aware that after four years of study in Tulsa's co-institutional high school, conducted by the Sisters of Divine Providence and the Brothers of the Christian Schools, they should be ready to take their place in society and help form a more Christian world.

Foreword

To us was given the responsibility of presenting in word and picture life at Bishop Kelley High School in 1962-1963.

What is really the fundamental spirit, the motivating force that governs every phase of the school program? The answer to that question, we decided, would be the theme of our 1963 Crest.

We studied the sharp, bare lines of Bishop Kelley High School and observed the stark simplicity of the Crucifix in each classroom. We watched the clear, silver slant of a ray of sunlight on that cloudy morning as we walked down the breezeway. We saw the world of Bishop Kelley in perspective.

PERSPECTIVE. Yes, at Bishop Kelley High School we look at all things in their true perspective.

This same sense of balance and proportion typical of the architecture of the school can be seen in Bishop Kelley's curriculum and activity program. A proper evaluation with proportional importance given to every phase of high school life assures teachers and students alike that the education received at Kelley is balanced and complete—an education that will equip its students spiritually, mentally, socially, and physically to make their contribution to a Christian society.

Bishop of Oklahoma City and Tulsa

Administration

Bishop Reed, through the office of Rev. Albert Flusche, superintendent of Catholic schools in Oklahoma sets a priority for all the schools of the diocese. The Bishop's program is administered at Keiley through the efforts of the board of Tulsa pastors headed by Monsignor William H. Reid, rector of Holy Family Cathedral.

The chief function of the priests is to maintain a spiritual climate in the school through the religion curriculum and the full-time counseling service.

Guiding students with their many-sided problems is Keiley's counselor, Father Bob, who is well-known in the Tulsa area as one of teenagers' best friends.

Brother Alfred, Superintendent

Brother Alfred's is a job of operation, reason, and expediting policy. It is he who keeps the wheels of educational organization running smoothly. With a drive that creates an overwhelming desire to do what must be done, when it needs to be done the way it has to be done, Brother Alfred has served as Kelley's superintendent since its opening in 1960.

Principals

Firm but friendly, calm but jovial . . . all are distinguishing personality traits of Bishop Kelley's principal of girls, Sister Angelina Marie

Respected for her leadership in the key position at BKH, Sister Angelina Marie is a staunch supporter of all academic and athletic events

She is principal of Bishop Kelley Girls' Department since 1960

SISTER ANGELINA MARIE, Principal of Girls

The math department at Bishop Kelley is under the competent direction of Brother K. Bernadine, who also holds the position of sub-director and principal of boys. Brother teaches physics, advanced algebra, and analytics. This busy brother supervises the testing program at Bishop Kelley and in his "spare time" performs his many duties as principal of the boys' section

Teachers Open Doors

A teacher is, of course, first and foremost a director of learning. Every department at Bishop Kelley High School has its specialists, who instruct students in their particular areas of specialization. These include religion, English, mathematics, science, social studies, homemaking, business, foreign languages, speech, journalism, art, and music. Carrying out their du-

Brothers Emphasize

The faculty of Bishop Kelley stresses the need for academic excellence. In this scientific and nuclear age there can be no substitute for scholastic achievement. Each class is planned to widen the student's intellectual scope.

One of the objectives of education at Bishop Kelley High School is to produce graduates who are capable of thinking and working independently. Most important to the teacher is his opportunity to teach religion, which will influence his students' relationships with God and man.

All business transactions center around the office

Checking absences, typing bulletins, collecting fees are only a few of the daily duties of the office personnel.

Three full-time office workers—Mesdames Lorette, Rodgers, and Toomey—and an office force of voluntary helpers from the Kelley Circle handle the many business details, thus lightening the already heavy load of the administration and faculty.

In his effort to discourage absenteeism except for good reasons, Brother Henry, attendance officer, calls the homes of all the absentees each morning to inquire of the parents the reason for each absence. A list of absentees is typed and a copy is sent to each homeroom teacher.

Maintenance Crew Is on the Job

TASTY JOB—Deciding on tasty, as well as nutritional meals is the job of Mrs. Ruth Sal-dana, assisted by Amelia Miller and Molly Sanders, who provide meals for hundreds of teachers and students each day.

Much thought goes into planning the meals, for they must be a careful balance of vitamins, proteins, and minerals.

CURRICULUM

As we get a true perspective of life at Bishop Kelley High School, we recognize immediately that spiritual development and intellectual accomplishments take first place.

Special educational and personal guidance is offered the student in the selection of courses. The counselor makes sure that the courses taken by the student are in line with his ability, needs, and interest.

The curriculum offerings include the college preparatory courses with emphasis on math, science, and the humanities, as well as the general (terminal course) with its vocational courses.

Every department, be it science or speech, homemaking or art, is modernly and adequately equipped to make learning enjoyable as well as useful.

ATHLETICS

Long hours of practice, training rules, and stubborn determination are found in every Kelley sportsman.

We have been the victors and the defeated, but we have done it as a team. No win can be accredited to an individual, only to the entire group. True teamwork, must be the idea of combined effort, not personal glory.

Besides building the body, athletics are also a stimulus to scholarship. This year Kelley lettermen have maintained a high grade average, proving that the sports program at Kelley is in its proper perspective.

Through sports, students develop physically, scholastically and socially. They learn to accept the weaknesses and proficiencies of others. By pooling their separate talents they give their time, ability, and energy to the school.

In all sports—football, basketball, golf, wrestling, baseball, tennis, and track—Comet athletes have developed character through victory and defeat.

The Kelley Tennis Team in its second year found itself playing six matches with a somewhat inexperienced team.

There were, however, some bright spots in the season. One was netting second place in the State Catholic tennis tournament. Another was the stellar individual performance of senior Pat Shaw who won the State Catholic singles title. This climaxed a 12-5 record for Shaw.

Kelley's six matches were divided among two with Cascia Hall, two with Holland Hall and two with Booker T. Washington.

Golf—New Kelley Sport

A new sport was introduced this year at Kelley—golf. From the squad this year, it look as though golf will be one of the strongest sports at Kelley in a year or two. Underclassmen Keven Scott, George McCurry, and Ed Carlton all showed exceptional ability thus giving support to the senior contingent.

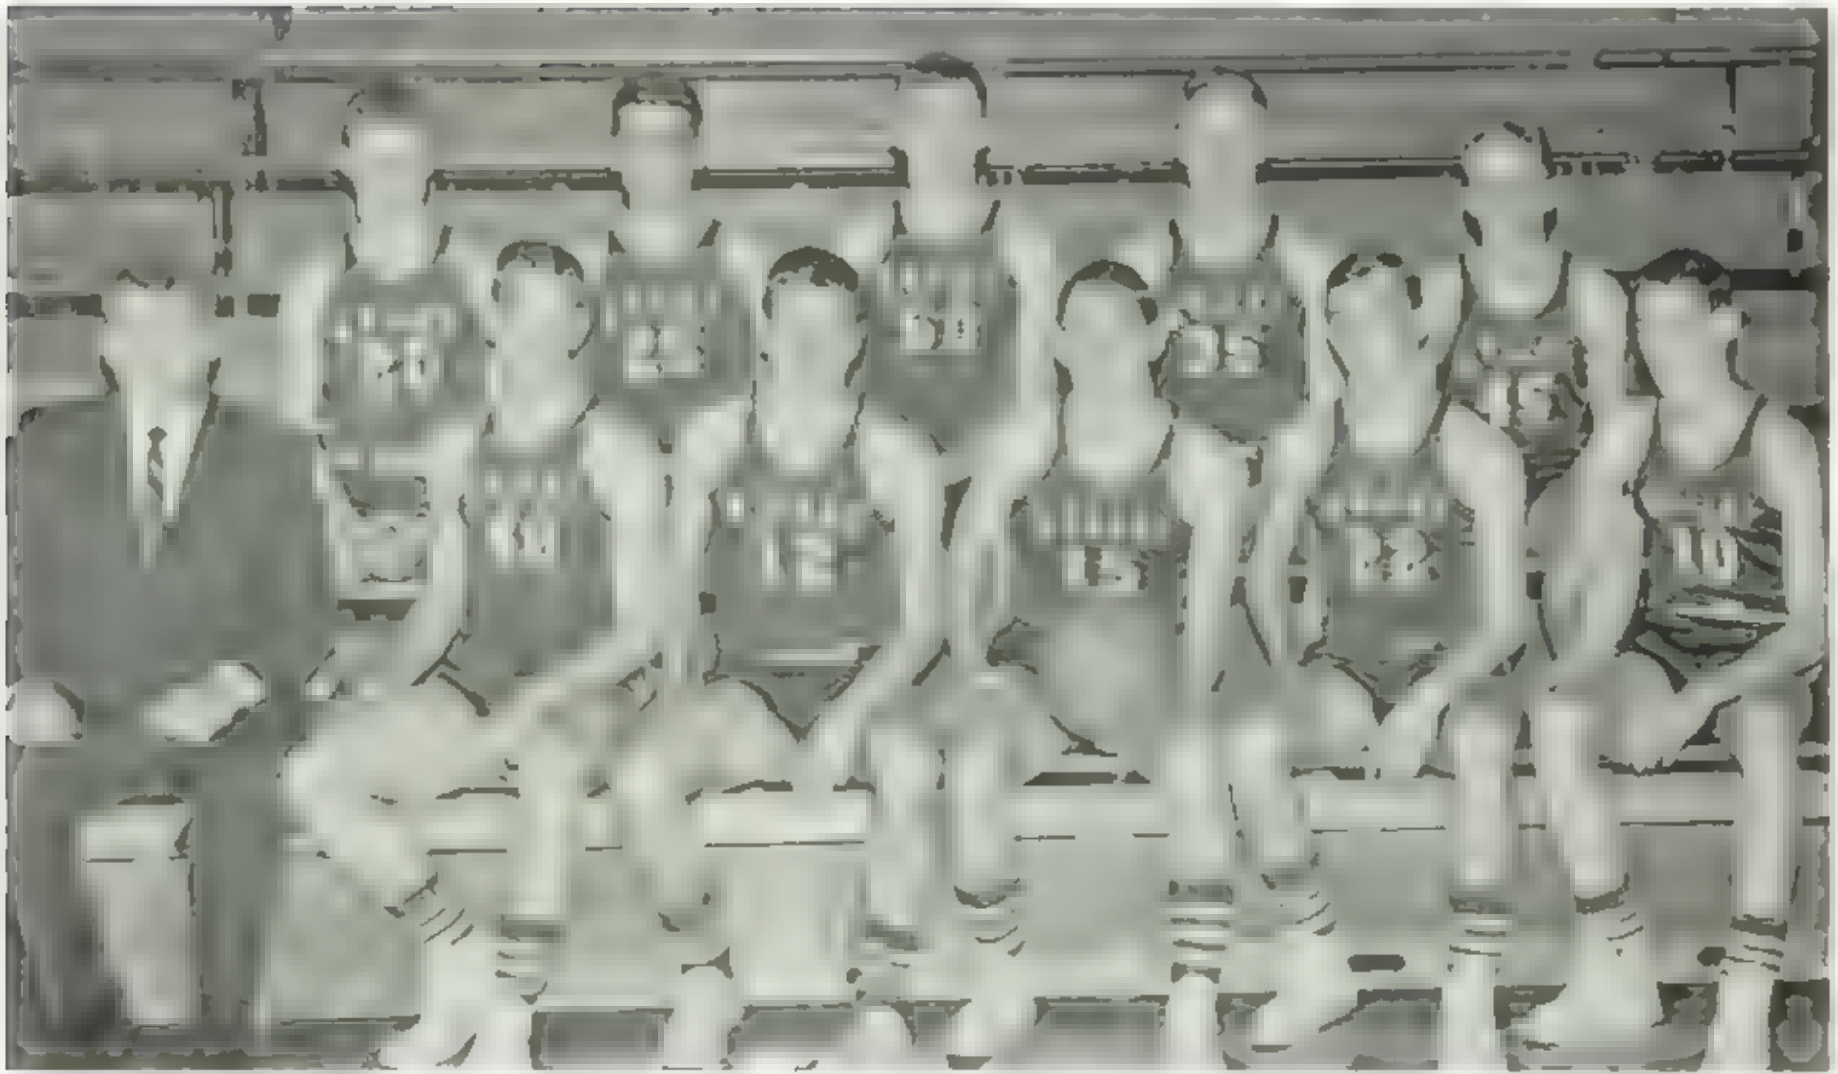

The golf team linked together a good enough team score to capture third place in the State Catholic golf tournament at Shawnee.

Their schedule included two matches with Cascia, two with Holland Hall, and one with McClain.

Promising Potential

During a time-out Coach Tabor discusses possible defensive changes.

The Comet cagers this year combined youth with experience to form a powerful team. The Kelley group won only six games but lost many by close margins. The Comets battled on equal footing with such top teams as Hale and Oklahoma City Douglas.

The spirit shown by the Kelley fans spurred the team on to top performance, not only in the sport but in sportsmanship. They did a fine job in both respects.

After the last game, Coach Tabor remarked that he was proud of the leadership and example the seniors had shown the younger boys. He predicted that with this kind of leadership and cooperation and a little more effort, future seasons should be successful.

A determined coach, a little talent, a lot of desire and effort all put together give you the State Catholic baseball champion—the Kelley Comets. Coach Gary Hevelone in his first year of coaching took an excellent pitching staff and some unproven hands to fashion a team that put together an 11-3 record, the best record ever of any Kelley sport. The Comets developed into a well balanced team which had consistent hitting, excellent pitching, and a very good defense. Thus they were able to defeat most Tulsa area opposition during the regular season, including the highly ranked Hale Rangers. The Kelley team also possessed the poise and confidence required of any sports champion.

In 1961 the Keley baseball team finished second in the conference. In 1962 they were state co-champions, and in 1963 they became undisputed state champions. There were perhaps many reasons for this championship. One was Jim Gifford whose record of 7.0 and E.R.A. of 1.23 with 70 strikeouts in 56 innings can't be overlooked. Other reasons were Coach Heveone Pat Quinn, Mike Wohlmuth and Gary Stewart, all clutch performers, and Jack Sjuess, an over .400 hitter whose glove saved many games. Yet the biggest reason of all was the team effort and unselfishness of everyone involved.

STUDENT LIFE

Math courses, lab sessions, hours and hours of homework—does the picture appear a bit out of focus? Then let's put student life at Kelley back in its proper perspective.

Bishop Kelley students belong to a number of organizations as varied in their scopes and objectives as are the interests of their members. Scholastic societies, co-curricular clubs, science organizations, glee clubs, proms, and picnics all contribute to the overall balance of student life.

Busy Kelleyites learn the value of leadership, cooperation, and responsibility as members of an active young Student Council. They work together on a smash-success senior play, entertain parents and teachers with a spring concert, spend Saturdays packing Christmas baskets, and collect necessities for the underprivileged migrant workers. And for fun? They "goof off" with a girl-ask-boy Sadie Hawkins dance, or a silly satirical skit before the big football game!

Each year the Key Club sponsors an Honor Convocation to recognize those students who have merited awards in various fields.

Student Council Represents Students and Aids School

Each year the Student Council holds a spirited campaign to elect new officers. Randy McGoffin is shown here before the election with two of his supporters, Greg McGoffin and Tony Bandiera.

HONORS

Honors, although earned by the individual, reflect the qualities that are looked for in all Kelley students. Everyone shares the joy of seeing a football queen being crowned or a scholarship winner receiving his award.

As seen in their proper perspective, Kelleyites who have attained honors are outstanding. Seniors who achieved and contributed to school life are given recognition when their peers elect them "Boys and Girls of the Month." Dynamic drive, combined with school spirit is personified in Miss Publications. Tremendous team interest and loyalty earn the title of Wrestling Sweetheart.

Although honors are an important facet in school life, they are never over-emphasized. The personal glory of a title is short-lived, but the character, personality, and loyalty that won for students these titles will live on and on.

October

Barbara Forman is the only senior who can survive a car wreck without injuries, only to cut her head getting into the police car. Her hard work and spirit will be missed by future student council members.

When anyone mentions Bill Favor, an image of a shapely "girl" in a blue sweater set comes to mind. Aside from stealing the show at the senior play, Bill's talents range from singing folk ballads to impersonating President Kennedy.

November

Enthusiastic—that is the word which describes Pat Mason. Her dynamic spirit was rewarded when she received the Pep Club trophy for best member.

"Good things come in little packages," the old adage goes. Kelley's proof of this is Greg Davey. Greg and his little red pillow will be remembered by wrestling fans for a long time.

December

Although this was Paula Crain's first year at Kelley she quickly became a part of the school and everyone's friend. Paula's easy-going fun-filled personality made it evident to everyone that Cushing's loss was Kelley's gain.

By combining leadership, school spirit, scholarship and friendliness, Gary Stewart, a Mr. Kelley exemplifies the Kelley ideals. He has proven himself an outstanding leader on the basketball court and for the senior class.

January

Red-headed, "superior" journalist Gayle McKee, also known as Miss Kelley, is well-known for her wit, hard work, and leadership. When she was not leading, she was following Dianne Bean through the halls and shouting, "My column is not!"

Kelley won the State Baseball Championship, thanks to a good team and southpaw Jim Gifford. A fine pitcher, Jim was a sports writer for The Crosier when he found time between the senior class play and annual rotations.

February

"Now, pet, you must remember your nerves." That line and her column have shown Dianne Bean to be one of the most congenial and well-liked seniors of '63.

Considered one of Kelley's better looking seniors, Jack Seuss made his dent in school history as an outstanding member of the baseball and basketball teams.

March

The trait that distinguished Mary Bullock, an outstanding senior, is hard work. Because she does the unnoticeable jobs such as writing "thank you" notes for the senior class and undecorating, she has proven herself a dedicated senior.

Mix an off-beat sense of humor, a tennis racket, and a deck of cards and you have Pat Shaw. Pat has the distinction of belonging to more organizations than any other senior boy.

April

Every class has someone who excels in everything he undertakes. Chris Murphy is that person. From National Merit finalist to editor-in-chief of a superior paper, Chris has achieved the top in everything she has done.

A top tight sports manager and a number one "woman hater" is Jack Sullivan. Next year's sportsmen will miss the spirit, help and encouragement Jack gave our football and basketball teams.

May

Someday when Pat Trahan is an outstanding entrepreneur, let's pretend of Pre-Aquarium.

My class. At the end of the year, we were all on wheels she was taking part in Asian Brother Periodic Birth class.

If you can stop Bob Bergschneider long enough between Key Club and Student Council projects, you will find a sharp-witted guy who is usually clutching newspaper copy ready for press.

CLASSES

We have long low buildings. We have fishponds, breezeways, and a patio. We have modern architecture and a landscaping project.

And then we have US-963 Kelleyites.

Throughout the year Kelley students support candy sales and beautification drives. They demonstrate their varied skills in karate assemblies, choral concerts, and bowl games. They recognize their elite at Howdy Dances and homecomings. And then they have fun mimicking the faculty and Commando rivals in pre-game skits.

From our freshman year on we look forward to the "annus mirabilis" of our life at Bishop Kelley High School—our senior year. That is the year we are the "elders" in the school. The freshmen, sophomores, and juniors have the right to expect us to take the lead in all of the activities intended to make Bishop Kelley ever a greater and better school.

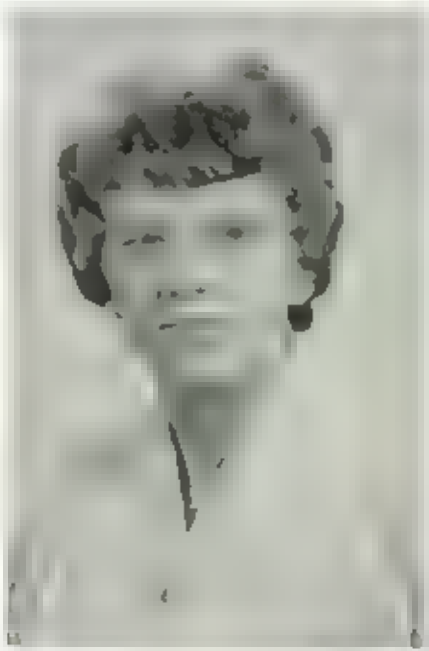

Leading the senior class of 1963 are the officers: Pat Shaw, treasurer; Gary Stewart, president; Gayle McKee, vice-president and Mary Bullock secretary. The seniors' activities this year centered around fund raising for the senior gift to the school—lighted letters spelling out Bishop Kelley High School.

LIVE MODERN . . . FOR LESS

NATURAL GAS IS THRIFTIEST / FASTEST / SAFEST / UNFAILING

You can live modern for less with natural gas . . . the modern fuel. Ingenious gas does everything for you at the lowest operating cost. Natural gas is 5 times safer than any other household fuel, and is fastest, too.

At the twist of a dial, the ingenious gas flame is instantly there, waiting to serve you. Unfailing natural gas comes to you thru weather-protected underground lines . . . always ready to work for you when you need it.

For the fastest, safest, thriftiest appliances available, see your gas appliance dealer.

Dear Dad,
I hope you are well.
I miss you and the family.
Love,
Elaine

Dear Dad,
I loved those bus rides with you. Thanks for the dance and all your sweet!

Love Ya.
Elaine

Not stay cool

Ellen

Not hope our Senior year will be a real ball!
Love you,
Margie

Not,
This is our Senior Big Year so let's really make it that way
your friend,
Sharon
Ellen

YEARBOOK

Hoped we have fun
this year like we did last year (in/ by. Science)
Tom Frohwapp

40 Williams pet.
(good laugh) but Dave.
2nd July
1950

To a real neat guy
who's made the school year go fast

Paul Johnson

Ned,
So one of the two boys I admire & love the most. Mary Joan

Good luck for one more final year.
Jeff D.

Ned,
I really don't know
you very well but what
I do know is all good.
Lot of luck

Anne Bullock

Ned,
Have fun
this year. All be seeing you around.
Susan
2/10/50

Ned
It's really been swell knowing you these past "11" years. Good luck.
Julie

Ned,
Lots of Luck
in the future.
Come see me in Calif.
Pete.

Ned, pretty soon you'll be good in tennis like me.
Tom Bayle
